The news was announced on Sunday by Microsoft's gami ng head Phil Spencer. We are pleased to announce that Microsoft and PlayStation have signed a binding agreement to keep Call of Duty on PlayStation following t he acquisition of Activision Blizzard, Spencer tweeted. We look forward to a f uture where players globally have more choice to play their favorite games. <  A Microsoft spokesperson subsequently confirmed to The Verge that the d eal would last for a term of 10 years, and covers Call of Duty only not any ot her Activision Blizzard games. That puts it on a par with agreements Microsoft h ad previously signed with Nintendo, Nvidia, and others. Microsoft president Brad Smith also commented, saying, From Day One of this acquisition, we've been committed to addressing the concerns of regulators , platform and game developers, and consumers. Even after we cross the finish li ne for this deal's approval, we will remain focused on ensuring that Call of Dut y remains available on more platforms and for more consumers than ever before. &

The signing of the deal marks the end of a long stalemate, during which Microsoft made repeated public offers to keep Call of Duty on PlayStation, whil e Sony dismissed these and instead attempted to use its leverage with regulators to sink Microsoft's $68.7 billion acquisition of Activision Blizzard completely
. I don't want a new Call of Duty deal. I just want to block your merger, Play Station boss Jim Ryan reportedly told Activision executives on the day of a meet
