<p&gt;A midfielder is an outfield position in association football.[1] Midfie lders may play an exclusively defensive role, breaking up attacks, and are in th at case known as defensive midfielders. As central midfielders often go across b oundaries, with mobility and passing ability, they are often referred to as deep -lying midfielders, play-makers, box-to-box midfielders, or holding midfielders. There are also attacking midfielders with limited defensive assignments.&lt;/p& gt; <p&gt;The size of midfield units on a team and their assigned roles depend on what formation is used; the unit of these players on the pitch is commonly referred to as the midfield. Its name derives from the fact that midfield units typi cally make up the in-between units to the defensive units and forward units of a formation.&lt;/p&gt;

<p&gt;Managers frequently assign one or more midfielders to disrupt the opposing team&#39;s attacks, while others may be tasked with creating goals, or have equal responsibilities between attack and defence. Midfielders are the players w ho typically travel the greatest distance during a match. Midfielders arguably h ave the most possession during a game, and thus they are some of the fittest players on the pitch.[3] Midfielders are often assigned the task of assisting forwards to create scoring opportunities &lt:/p&gt:
