hs or years. Generally, market crashes when a large number of investors invest in the stock market to such an extent that it becomes a market crash. In 2008, the global financial crisis led to a market crash that saw the Dow Jones Industrial Average drop over 30% in a matter of weeks. This was the first time since the 1929 crash that the market had fallen so far and so fast. The crash was caused by a combination of factors, including the subprime mortgage crisis, the collapse of Lehman Brothers, and the failure of the U.S. government to provide a timely and adequate response to the crisis. The crash led to a global recession that lasted for several years and resulted in the loss of millions of jobs and trillions of dollars in wealth. The crash also led to a loss of confidence in the financial system and a shift in the way that investors think about risk and return. The crash was a major turning point in the history of the global financial system and led to a number of reforms and changes in the way that the system operates. The crash also led to a renewed focus on the importance of financial regulation and the need to protect investors and the public interest.
