Frank Warren has revealed he is "working" on a potential deal which would see Cristiano Ronaldo return to the Premier League after a successful spell in Saudi Arabia.

Warren was sat next to Ronaldo at the "Day of Reckoning" boxing event in Riyadh, Saudi Arabia, where Anthony Joshua was fighting in the main event against Otto Wallin, while the likes of Deontay Wilder and Daniel Dubois were involved on the undercard.

Ronaldo has shone for Al-Nassr, who currently sit second in the Saudi Pro League table, 10 points behind runaway leaders Al-Hilal. Luis Castro's side strengthened in the summer, with Sadio Mane, Seko Fofana, Ameri Laporte and Marcelo Brozovic bolstering their squad they try and challenge for the title.

Despite Ronaldo's impressive form, Castro believes there is more to come from the 38-year-old in Saudi Arabia. "For Ronaldo to reach his full potential, we must build a team around him to enhance his capabilities, Castro said. "We cannot have a powerful car and want to drive it on a road full of potholes."
